year, where bloom is required to keep up a show in the conservatory or drawing-room, no tribe of plants is more suitable than the Azalea ; by selecting some that have their buds most prominent and placing them in heat, you m-iy keep up a succession of bloom from February until July; but of course when plants are required for succession so long, when the season arrives that we get more sun, instead of placing them in heat, they JANUARY.
